Parents!

Would you like to help your child attain 100% more confidence, improved coordination and proficiency in the art of self defense?

Psychologists tell us that physical prowess is as important in a child's emotional growth and character development as academic progress or achievement. The slow or ungifted child is often bypassed or side-lined in the usual organized sports or physical programs.

Here at Bushidokan, children who have never "fit in" to any physical environment or the athletic world, find a place to develop physically and emotionally. Bushidokan students advance at their individual capacity, and at the same time they are encouraged to increase their capacity and surpass their limitations. Slower students are allowed more time to grasp the subject matter while the quicker student is allowed to progress at his own level of achievement.

"Our Parents" (parents of our Judo Trained students), consistently tell us of how their children now excel or lead their classes in the athletic programs at school, or how their child made the team for the first time. Other improvements mentioned include Higher Grades—Fewer Discipline problems—New Alertness and interest, and a new-found opportunity to "Stand Out" or "Lead" their classmates, rather than to stand back and follow.

CHILDREN!

Have your parents stop by Bushidokan to watch a class or a workout and perhaps talk to some of "our parents". We believe, that after seeing "our children" in action, and talking to their proud parents, you and your parents will see how interesting and how valuable Judo Training can be for you.
